Tricolored Blackbirds and Audubon

Dan Guthrie

The tricolored blackbird is almost California’s only endemic species as more than 90% of the population breeds here. It is also the most colonial landbird which can cause problems. There are today about 300,000 tricoloreds but this number is small compared to those in the past. Further, a colony can contain up to 50,000 birds, with the biggest concentration of birds in the central valley.

Lately volunteers, including some of our members, have participated in statewide nesting surveys each April. We have very few nesting tricoloreds in southern California, with major colonies (a few hundred) near Lake Perris and in Chino. A major problem for the birds is that they tend to nest in weedy fields, such as thistle. Most of the world’s population nests in three or four large colonies in the Central Valley and each year pick a different location based on conditions. In a drought period, such as this year, there is little in the way of weedy fields. The result is that the blackbirds pick irrigated crop fields such as wheat or sorghum in which to nest.

A colony of some 40,000 birds was recently found in a farmers hay field in the central valley, a field that the farmer planned to mow to provide feed for his cattle. California Audubon put out a call to its member clubs to raise the money required to allow the farmer to purchase feed for his cattle and leave the field unmowed until later in the year. I have not yet heard whether this was successful or not, but our chapter made a generous contribution to the cause. Continuous monitoring is necessary for this species so we can locate colonies and determine whether or not they are safe from dangers such as mowing or burning before the young have fledged.

A new catch basin area on the south side of Kimball and east of Euclid was created as mitigation for some of the housing tracts being built on old dairyland. Tricoloreds have used this area in the past, and it is protected from people, dogs and disturbance. Whether a food supply from remaining dairies and feed lots is sufficient to support the birds remains to be seen.

THE LIVING DESERT

by Beryl Williams

It was with great pleasure that we spotted a Verdin during a February visit to The Living Desert in Palm Desert. We hadn’t seen one for years, but their beauty and delicate features are always a welcome sight. Verdins work dexterously through thorny desert vegetation in pursuit of their insect prey. They also probe for nectar at flowers and consume fruits.

We’ve enjoyed Greater Roadrunner sightings on many occasions, although we’ve never been able to keep them in view for more than five seconds. Once we were on a tour in Baja California, being bused between the city of La Paz on the Sea of Cortez and Magdalena Bay on the Pacific Ocean. Someone yelled: “ROADRUNNER – RIGHT SIDE OF THE BUS”. Everybody raced to the right side until the bus appeared to tilt slightly. We were the only Californians on that trip and none of the Easterners had ever seen a Greater Roadrunner.

There is an aviary at The Living Desert that provides a home for “rescued” birds that cannot be released. This gave us the chance to study apparent courting behavior between two Greater Roadrunners. Initially you see intermittent periods of sky pointing followed by the male moving his tail back and forth. The second step of courtship involves the male offering a twig or other piece of nest-building material to the female. He may drop this at her feet and she may pick it up in her beak. The male that we were watching scampered into a mid-sized bush where he waited patiently for the female to join him on his perch. The time elapsed was 5-10 minutes. When she made her way to his side, he immediately dropped his offering at her feet, where the leaves fluttered through the branches to the ground. We couldn’t stay any longer, but were enchanted by what we’d already seen. The final step in the courtship process involves the male bringing a vertebrate animal to the female. Only when such an offering is presented will the female finally consent to mating. Facts in this paragraph are excerpted from the chapter, Ensuring Descendents, in the book “The Roadrunner”, by James W. Cornett.

Enjoy the baby birds fledging now... and remember, KEEP ON BIRDING!!!
Field Trips - Summer 2014

Pomona Valley Audubon field trips are open to all individuals. Remember to call the trip leader if you plan to attend and to confirm starting time & meeting location. Sunday Monthly Bird Walks meet at Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden. Bonelli Park trips meet at park headquarters on Via Verde, just off the 57 freeway. Most other trips meet at Memorial Park in Claremont. It is recommended to bring a snack (lunch if recommended), plenty of water, sun protection, and bug spray to all trips. Car pooling is usually possible.

First Sunday of each month ----

Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Garden Bird Walks--
Join us for our monthly bird walk. Family friendly, the walk is slow paced and lasts approx. two hours. (Bring binoculars if you have them) Meets 8:00 a.m. at the front entry gate (north end of College Ave. above Foothill Blvd. 1500 N. College Ave.)
Leader: Fraser Pemberton (909) 624-6451.
Sunday, May 4, 2014
Sunday, June 1, 2014

Fourth Sunday of each month ----

Bonelli Park Monthly Bird Walks----
Meet at 8:00 a.m. at the Bonelli Park headquarters on Via Verde near the 57 Fwy. for our monthly walk (4th Sunday, about 2 hours) at Bonelli Park.
Leader: Rod Higbie (909) 599-6526.
Sunday, April 27, 2014
Sunday, May 25, 2014

Day & weekend PVAS trips---- Check webpage for any changes.

Saturday, April 26, 2014 Lake Elsinore Wetlands
Join us on a new adventure to the Lake Elsinore Wetlands led by Julie Szabo, a docent for the project. The project consists of a 3-mile long levee along the eastern shoreline of the lake and an adjacent large riparian area of willow, cottonwood and mule fat and several large ponds. We will drive the levees and well graded dirt roads stopping along the way for easy short walks for viewing. Bring lunch, water, sunscreen and scope if you have one. Note that only 10 cars will be allowed into the area so carpooling is a must. We can consolidate the cars at the parking area at the entrance if needed. Meet at Memorial Park at 6:45 am. Leader: Hank Feilen, henry.feilen@verizon.net or 909-627-8191.

Sunday, April 27, 2014 BOLSA CHICA
Eric will take us to the coast for nesting terns and migrating shorebirds. Meet at memorial Park at 7 a.m.. Leader: Eric Smith 909 477-7976 or bird4life28@yahoo.com

Saturday, May 3, 2014 Big Morongo Canyon
Timed for the height of western migration for transient and returning species, this trip should find Summer Tanager, Brown-crested Flycatcher, Yellow-breasted Chat and lots of orioles. Meet at Memorial Park at 6:00 a.m. and bring a lunch.
Leader: Dan Gregory (909) 944-2259.

Saturday & Sunday, May 31 & June 1, 2014 Big Bear Weekend
A two-day trip for mountain species, many of them nesting. Saturday we will visit Bluff Lake and the Champion Lodgepole Pine. Possible on Sunday are the Arraste Creek and Green Mtn. Trail. Lodging is on your own, but day trippers are also welcome. Bring lunch, snacks, and plenty of water. Wear sunscreen and dress in layers as weather can vary greatly. RSVP to pamtone@verizon.net by May 24 for meeting location, time, etc.. Trip will be cancelled if fewer than six persons each day. Leader: Pam Kling, (909) 240-7604.

Thursday, June 12, 2014 Carbon Canyon Regional Park
Oak woodland should a pleasant 1/2 day trip for nesting residents. Entrance fee. Meet Memorial Park 7 a.m. for carpooling. Leader: Dan Gregory (909) 944-2259 or 909 456-4994 cell.

Saturday, July 5, 2014 Wrightwood Area
Our annual summer trip to Grassy Hollow, Blue Ridge Campground, and Table Mtn. Meet at Memorial Park at 6:00 a.m. Bring lunch and sunscreen. RSVP if you plan to attend. Leader: Pam Kling, pamtone@verizon.net ors (909) 240-7604.
